CWS sets deal in Hawaii

Concrete Washout Systems Inc. has cemented a deal with a Hawaii partner to offer systems for pumping concrete without dribbling it into the environment.

Elk Grove, Calif.-based CWS said Tuesday that Gregory Perrin, owner of American Standard Concrete Pumping Hawaii Inc., has a new subsidiary called CWS Hawaii that has signed a licensing agreement with its Mainland partner.

"Concrete washout is a huge problem for our island construction community," Perrin said. "CWS is the first system that fully addresses all the problems associated with concrete washout."

CWS has licensed partners in Las Vegas, Reno, Phoenix, Denver, southeast Florida and most of California.

It says its patent-pending system is a portable, self-contained and watertight bin that controls, captures and contains concrete washout material and wastewater, allowing personnel to easily wash out concrete trucks, pumps and equipment on site and facilitates easy offsite recycling of the same concrete materials and wastewater, while protecting the storm drain system from potential illegal discharges.
